Diedrich Steinke

Theresia WERLING-STEINKE

"WERLING" comes from the Middle High German word weren 'to defend', warnen 'to warn', or wären 'to protect'.

Diedrich STEINKE was born on October 17, 1841 in Rhine, Ohio. He was the second of thirteen children born to Joseph John Lambert STEINKE and Mary Anna (KAISER) STEINKE.

Diedrich STEINKE married Theresia (WERLING) SCHNIPPEL on August 16, 1859 at St. John's Catholic Church in Fryburg, Ohio. Theresia WERLING was born on March 8, 1834 in Fryburg, the fifth of six children born to Stephen WERLING and Rosalia KNAPPER. Her parents immigrated to America from Weyersheim, Bas-Rhin, Alsace, France sometime between 1829 and 1831. Theresia (WERLING) SCHNIPPEL had two children from her marriage to Bernard SCHNIPPEL, who died in 1858.

After his married, Diedrich STEINKE farmed in Dinsmore Township. The 1860 Census showed his grandfather, Henry KAISER, age 70, lived with him, Theresia, and her two children. This was possibly on the original KAISER farm. By 1870, he was farming in Pusheta Township. Both the 1870 and 1880 Pusheta Township "Productions of Agriculture" Schedules show him owning 80 acres. In 1870, he owned 4 horses, 3 "milch" cows, 14 sheep, and 11 swine. In 1869, he produced 200 bushels of wheat, 300 bu. corn, 180 bu. oats, and 50 bu. barley. He also harvested 8 bu. "Irish" potatoes, 20 bu. orchard products, 100 lbs. of butter, 8 tons of hay, and 5 gallons of sorghum molasses. By 1880, farm production increased considerably, and they raised 75 chickens producing 300 dozen eggs, and they had bees that produced 12 pounds of honey.

Diedrich and Theresia (WERLING-SCHNIPPEL) STEINKE had eleven children between 1910 and 1883.

Diedrich STEINKE died on November 19, 1904 at his farm. Theresia (WERLING-SCHNIPPEL) STEINKE died, at the age of 81 years, on April 30, 1915 at the home of her son, John, in Fryburg. She moved there shortly after her husband's death. Theresia and Diedrich STEINKE are buried together at St. Lawrence Catholic Church Cemetery in Rhine.

The 1850 Census from Clay Twp., Auglaize County shows Theresia WERLING, age 16, and her family.

Three Werling Brothers Drown in Lake St. Marys

Three of Theresia (WERLING) STEINKE's brothers drowned in 1859, in Grand Lake St. Marys. (Michael Joseph, Louis Ludwig, and Peter WERLING). They are buried together at St. John's Catholic Cem. in Fryburg.

From Theresia (WERLING) STEINKE's obituary: "Mrs. Steinke was the last member of her family, and older residents will remember the terrible catastrophe which occurred to the three Werling brothers, all of them brothers of the subject of this article, at the Grand Reservoir at St. Marys about 40 years ago, when all three of them were drowned while fishing."

From THE WESTERN STANDARD, Thursday May 26, 1859, Celina, Ohio:

"Five Men Drown In Reservoir"

On last Tuesday five men were drowned in the Reservoir at the east side by the upsetting of a small canoe in which the were riding. We do not have their names but understand they were men of families out on a fishing excursion and that bad whisky was the main cause of the dreadful calamity. Their bodies were recovered in a short time after the accident."

Common German words found on grave stones.

Many of our German ancestors continued to speak German after they immigrated to America, some of them never learned English. It was not uncommon for these ancestors to have their grave stones written in German. Some of their children, and even grandchildren, who were born in America have German tomb stones. Below are common words found on German grave stones. It will be useful in interpreting the writing on stones of our ancestors found in this and previous chapters.
